“Analytic Listening from Multiple Perspectives”

This program is for Washington, D.C. area mental health students and providers who are interested in further developing their listening skills and for anyone considering analytic training.

Experienced psychoanalysts Elizabeth Carr, APRN, MSN, BC; Yvonne De Cuir, PhD, Shelley Rockwell, PhD; and David Scharff, MD who are members of four different psychoanalytic training institutes in the D.C. Metropolitan area will discuss their own perspectives on a case presented by Michele Reed, MSW, a candidate who is training at one of the institutes. Participants will have the opportunity to contribute to the moderated discussion.

Through this Workshop, participants will be able to:
1. Compare multiple perspectives taken on one analytic case.
2. Clarify and reconsider their current theoretical belief systems by comparing them to the multiple perspectives presented.
3. Describe how to apply at least one practice modification to enhance their clinical listening ability.
